THE MORNING NEWS

WASHINGTON.

Mitigation of Flipper's Sentence.

WASHINGTON, May 26. It is now understood that Secretary Lincoln approved the recommendation of Judge Advocate-General Swaim for mitigation of the sentence of Lieutenant Flipper, who was convicted of a gross violation of army regulations and sentenced to dismissal from the service. The President will not act upon the case until he has had time to dispose of important questions of state now claiming his attention, but it is learned that he is disposed to grant the mitigation recommended by the judge advocate-general.

The Star Route Cases Again Postponed.

There has been another postponement in the Star route cases, but only for one day. It was the defence this time which sought delay for the purpose of examining some papers. At the hearing Attorney General Brewster made a brief speech, indicating that the government is very much in earnest, and is determined to press the cases to a conviction if possible. He said that he was urging upon the court the necessity of a prompt hearing, and to see that it was the desire of the government that the prosecuting should be earnestly pushed.

Statistics of the Census.

The census office has issued a bulletin showing that by the census of 1880 the number of persons in the United States was 50,155,783; the area in square miles, 2,200,170; the number of families, 9,945,-916; the number of dwellings, 8,955,812; the number of persons to a square mile, 17.29; the number of families to a square mile 3.43; the number of dwellings to a square mile, 3.02; acres to a person, 37.01; acres to a family, 186.62; persons to a dwelling, 5.60; and persons to a family, 5.04. The area of land is surface only and exclusive of the Indian territory and tracts of unorganized territory aggregating 69,830 square miles.

Departure of the President.

The President gave an informal lunch to members of his Cabinet today, and left on the limited express this afternoon for New York. Attorney General Brewster was the only member of his Cabinet who accompanied him. Secretary Folger, Secretary Lincoln, and Private Secretary Phillips will join him in New York on Monday. The party will review the parade of the Grand Army of the Republic on Decoration day, but will not be able to attend the memorial exercises in Academy of Music on that day.

Notes.

It is understood that Jacob A. Ambler, of Ohio, has been selected by the President as one of the tariff commissioners.

The Secretary of the Treasury has prepared a circular to collectors of customs prescribing the form of certificate to be delivered to Chinese laborers departing from this country entitling them to return, under the provisions of the act of May 6th, 1882. It is provided that the certificates shall be printed on bank note fibre paper, so as to guard against counterfeiting.

The members of the tariff commission, so far as they were agreed upon at the Cabinet meeting today, are John L. Hayes of Massachusetts, Henry A. Oliver of Pennsylvania, A. M. Garland of Illinois, Robert P. Potter of the District of Columbia, Alexander Mitchell of Wisconsin, John S. Phelps of Missouri, and James Chestnut, Jr., of South Carolina. The list will probably be completed by the selection of William A. Wheeler, of New York, who, if nominated, will be chairman of the commission, and J. A. Ambler of Ohio. The names of the commissioners will be sent to the Senate in the early part of next week.

The last New York appointments are severely criticised, even by some of the President's friends. The general impression is that more of the same general character are soon to follow.

Mr. Brentz, the delegate in Congress from Washington territory, made an argument, today, before the Senate committee on territories, in support of the claims of his territory for admission into the Union as a state.

FOREIGN.

Matters in Ireland.

DUBLIN, May 26.—Cardinal McCabe today received an influential deputation, which came to congratulate him upon his elevation to the cardinalate. In his reply, the cardinal said the humiliating fact remained that the assassins of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke had not yet been discovered.

LONDON, May 26.—A memorial, signed by forty-seven Liberal members of Parliament, has been presented to Mr. Gladstone, urging a reduction of the period in which the repression bill shall be in force and a modification of the clauses in regard to intimidation, public meetings and the press.

Mr. Davitt, having consulted Messrs. Parnell and Dillon, will start for Connemara today to relieve evicted tenants.

Resignation of the Egyptian Ministry.

CAIRO, May 26.—The ministry have resigned, after refusing the demands of England and France and referring them to the Sultan.

The president of the council of ministers has sent the following note to the Khedive:—"Your acceptance of the Ultimatum is contrary to the unanimous advice of your ministers. As an admission of the intervention of foreign powers, this incident constitutes an infringement of the rights of the Sultan. We therefore tender our resignations."

The Khedive has accepted the resignations.

Retirement of Count Von Beust.

VIENNA, May 26.—An autograph letter from Emperor Francis Joseph to Count Von Beust is officially published, granting the request of the latter to be relieved from the post of Austro-Hungarian ambassador at Paris, and placed on the retired list. The Emperor acknowledges in most flattering terms the eminent services of Count Von Beust.

Notes.

General Ignatieff, Minister of Interior, has visited General Louis Melekoff.

The expulsion of Mr. Callan from the London Reform Club was for social reasons.

Canon Ernest Wilberforce, son of the late Bishop of Oxford, has been appointed First Bishop of Newcastle.

The departmental committee of the British House of Commons has reported that the channel tunnel is defensible, but suggests that the opening be carried further inland, where means of defence are more complete.

The Chicago board of trade yesterday voted to adjourn over Monday and Tuesday on account of Decoration day services.

The arbitration committee has brought in a report fixing the settling price of wheat contracts at $1.31.

The American Library Association yesterday adopted a resolution which asserts that the plans for a Congressional Library building adopted by the joint committee of Congress embodies principles of construction which are faulty, and the association protests against the erection of the building upon these principles.

At Wilmington, Del., the jury in the case of James Redden (colored), charged with criminally assaulting a young white girl, after being out twenty-four hours, returned a verdict at noon Friday of guilty in the manner and form as indicted. The death sentence will be imposed.

The U. S. S. Vandalia, which arrived in Hampton Roads from sea last night, collided with schooner Abbie Dunn, from York river, bound to Bath, Me., with lumber, fifty miles off Cape Henry, and carried away the bowsprit and fore topmast of the schooner. She towed the schooner into Hampton Roads.

An infernal machine containing powder and fuse has been found on the porch of the office of the Weekly News, Warrensburgh, Warren county, New York. An attempt had been made to set the fuse on fire. An inscription on the machine warned the former editor to leave town. He had offended some by his temperance principles.

Postmaster General Howe is in Chicago and says the money specially appropriated by Congress to expedite the mails will probably be used to increase the speed. He is endeavoring to hasten the fast train between New York and San Francisco. The chief question now is whether it shall leave New York in the morning or evening, opinions differing on this point.

Bright's Disease, Diabetes.

Beware of the stuff that pretends to cure these diseases or other serious Kidney, Urinary or Liver diseases, as they only relieve for a time, and make you ten times worse afterwards, but rely solely on Hop Bitters, the only remedy that will surely and permanently cure you. It destroys and removes the cause of the disease so effectually that it never returns.

DR. FRAZIER'S ROOT BITTERS.

The above wonderful medicine is, as its name indicates, strictly a Bitters or Blood Cleanser, made from roots, combined with herbs and plants, such as are found in Nature's garden. I first used Dr. Frazier's Root Bitters myself for weakness of the lungs, catarrh and scrofula in the system, which broke out in pimples and blotches, and after doctoring with physicians and trying advertised medicines (including Sarsaparilla) without finding relief my discovery effected a complete cure. Frazier's Root Bitters are not a dram shop whiskey beverage, but are strictly medicinal in every sense. They act strongly upon the liver and kidneys, keep the bowels open and regular, make the whole system strong, heal the lungs, build up the nervous system, cleanse the blood and system of every impurity. For dizziness, rush of blood to the head tending to apoplexy, dyspepsia, fever and ague, dropsy, pimples and blotches, scrofulous humors and sores, tetter ring worm, white swelling, erysipelas, sore eyes and for young men suffering from premature decay or debility caused from imprudence and for females in delicate health, Frazier's Root Bitters are especially recommended.

Dr. Frazier: I have used two bottles of your Root Bitters for dyspepsia, dizziness, weakness and kidney disease, and they did me more good than the doctors and all the medicine I ever used. From the first dose I took I began to mend, and I am now in perfect health, and feel as well as ever I did. I consider your medicine one of the greatest of blessings. Mrs. M. MARTIN, Cleveland, O.

AMERICAN BAPTIST HOME MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

At the recent session of the American Baptist Home Missionary Society's jubilee meeting, the committee on Chinese missions presented their report, which caused a general debate on the Chinese question. The committee believe that the passage by Congress of the bill prohibiting Chinese immigration was not demanded by any actual peril to our institutions or our industries. The report concludes by advising all to help and encourage the Chinese now in this country, so that when they return to their own native land they will take back a good impression of the United States, and the germs of Christianity. The Rev. G. S. Abbott, of California, expressed himself as strongly opposed to Chinese immigration.

Dr. Thomas, of Brooklyn, favored the immigration of all, and thought there was no danger of the Chinese capturing the country. Dr. Potter, of Springfield, was in favor of restricting immigration.

Dr. Boyd, of St. Louis, thought that we should welcome the Chinese even if it affected our pockets. Dr. Baker, of Salem, Oregon, said that the Christian people of the Pacific coast were not opposed to legitimate immigration, and he favored the Chinese. The report of the committee was then adopted.

Rev. G. W. Lasher, D. D., of Ohio, chairman of the committee on missions among foreign populations, presented his report and recommended that the society devote to missions among the European population of this country a sum not less than $25,000. Rev. J. N. Williams spoke of the mission work among foreigners here, and addresses were also made by the Rev. J. S. Julleman, of Pennsylvania, and Professor H. M. Scaffer, of New York.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

The revised New Testament has been formally adopted at Yale Theological Seminary.

Northern churches spend nearly a million dollars a year on churches and schools in the South.

The Hebrew Leader thinks that large colonies of Russian Jews will soon settle in Palestine, now that the Sultan has given them permission to do so.

Governor Long, Phillips Brooks, Bishop Foster, and President Carter, of Williams College, are to be among the speakers at the Congregational Club Festival, Boston, next week.

The Massachusetts committee of the Evangelical Ministers' Association desire that the ministers of the state will preach on the Sabbath question sometime in May or June.

The fact that sixteen out of twenty noted infidel lecturers in England during the last score of years have become advocates of the Christian religion is made the basis of the predictions that Colonel Ingersoll will become a preacher.

Twelve new churches are building or planned in New York city. The churches to be erected are as follows:—Two each of the Methodist, Baptist, Catholic and Hebrew denominations, and one each of the Episcopal and Lutheran denominations, and one unsectarian.

An impromptu meeting of the Union Congregational Church in Providence, was held May 19, at which resolutions were passed of strong attachment to the pastor, Rev. A. J. F. Behrends, D. D., and an earnest desire expressed that he should remain in his present pastorate, he having received a call elsewhere.

From the report just made to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church, it appears that there was given to the Home and Foreign missionary boards of that denomination during last year, for Foreign Missions $592,289 and for Home Missions $103,109, making a total of nearly a round million of dollars.

THE PEOPLE'S CHURCH.

The board of trustees of the People's Church, Methodist Episcopal, Boston, on Thursday signed contracts for the erection of the main building at the corner of Columbus avenue and Berkley street, to be added to the chapel and parsonage already up, built some three or four years ago. In harmony with the building already erected, the church will be built of brick with freestone trimmings and granite base. The front on Columbus avenue will be of the best Philadelphia faced brick. It is expected that the walls will be ready for the roof by the first day of August, and the work completed by Oct. 1, when it is hoped that money will have been raised to go on and finish the interior. This building, when completed, will be the largest church edifice in New England, accommodating, with the chapel which opens into it, between 3000 and 4000 persons. The church will be free in its sittings, but so arranged that families can sit together. Some of the best seats will be reserved for strangers and occasional attendants. More than 4000 members have united with the church since the work began, notwithstanding its present limited accommodations. Rev. J. W. Hamilton is the pastor.

The Louisville Courier-Journal thus speaks of three famous Tennesseans, who are now dead: "There was a time when 'Parson' Brownlow, 'Andy' Johnson, and Horace Maynard were the three great men of Tennessee, and, though differing in every other characteristic, they were much alike in swaying the people by their blunt honesty. The three were perfectly fearless in that they clung to their opinions and principles irrespective of the popular regard."

Some of the convicts in the Ohio penitentiary have been maiming their hands in order to avoid work, making a wound and keeping it open so as to unfit them for any kind of manual labor. The warden is trying to break up the practice by compelling them to stand up all day long in the work room, in a small boxlike arrangement. Of course they cannot work, but the long standing becomes very tiresome, and in most cases proves effective.

You know what fearful things you'll see in the air when you look through a powerful microscope. Well, a man out at Denver got dead drunk. While he was asleep some medical students fixed a couple of microscopes on his eyes, and the way that fellow had jim-jams when he woke up was a caution.

Camels live from forty to fifty years; horses from twenty-five to thirty; circus jokes—it is too soon yet to determine the age to which they do live, as none have died.—Pittsburg Times.

Consumption.

To prevent night sweats, loosen the cough and arrest consumption and decline, no other form of malt or medicine can possibly equal MALT BITTERS. This original Nutrient and Tonic is rich in nourishment and strength. It takes the patient over the most critical stages of the disease, digests and assimilates food, enriches and purifies the blood. It builds up the system by stimulating into new life the entire process of digestion.

The Newport Daily News is published every afternoon (Sundays excepted), at the News building, 137 Thames street, by Davis & Pitman.

The Newport Journal is published at the same office every Saturday morning and contains a selection of the best matter in the Daily, including editorial discussions of the topics of the week, literary miscellanies and at least one good story, and a complete and comprehensive summary of news—local and general. The Journal is a large 36-column paper and contains a large amount of reading matter that is valuable to readers in town or country who desire a good Newport paper, but who do not take a daily from the city.

Complaints regarding the irregular or improper delivery of either paper should be sent to the office at once.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

The Daily News, $6 per annum, or 12 cents a week payable to carrier.

The Newport Journal will be sent to any address in the United States, postage paid, for $2 a year. A discount of 50 cents is made when the whole year is paid strictly in advance. These terms are invariable.

ADVERTISING RATES.

Ordinary advertisements, $1 a square, for the first insertion, and 25 cents for each continuance. Ten lines, or less, in this type, make a square. Advertisements in reading matter are charged for, at 50 per cent. extra and are subject to editorial revision. A discount on these rates is allowed on all advertisements ordered in the Daily for one week or longer.

Notices of births, marriages and funerals 50 cents each.

Yearly advertisers are limited to their immediate business, are guaranteed but five insertions in a week and are allowed twenty-five changes a year.

The circulations of the News and Journal being necessarily distinct, an advertisement inserted in both papers will reach entirely different sets of readers. As further inducement for advertisers to use both News and Journal, a liberal discount on the combined rates is made.

PRINTING.

The News has four steam presses and is a large and well appointed job printing office. All orders for work in this department will be promptly filled, and at reasonable prices. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited.

Newport Daily News

SATURDAY, MAY 27, 1882.

The will of the late poet Emerson makes no public bequests.

There has been a heavy decline in gas stocks, in New York, within a few weeks. This decline is said to be caused by the success of the electric lights.

The Union club of New York has expelled Mr. J. T. Loubat and severely censured Mr. Turnbull, who recently quarreled in the club house, and afterwards caused so much talk about fighting a duel.

According to Bradstreet's report of the state of trade, there were 124 failures in the United States during the past week. The New England states had thirty-one, an increase of ten over last week's report.

The ultimatum issued to Egypt by France and England has had its desired effect. The crisis has resulted in the resignation of the ministry, which has been accepted by the Khedive. The allied squadron will remain off Alexandria.

Mayor King, of Philadelphia, has renewed his edict of last year against the explosion of fireworks on the Fourth of July. The old people will be glad to hear this, but the boys would not be likely to support such a mayor if they had anything to say about it.

Congressman Morse, of Boston, refuses to join the Democrats in filibustering in the House, and says he will vote whenever a vote is necessary to make a quorum. Mr. Morse is one of the few members who can rise above party and act with reference to the public good. It is a pity that he will not allow himself to be re-elected.

The House Republicans held a caucus three hours long last evening and thoroughly discussed the contested election case, which has caused the present deadlock. The points in the case were fully explained by the members of the committee on elections, and the caucus came to the conclusion that the allegations made by Mr. Samuel Dibble, as to forgery and falsifying evidence, have been fully, fairly and exhaustively considered by the committee on elections, and that the matter should be carefully considered in the House, and that therefore they should proceed with a discussion of the question and press the House for a vote on the subject.

In the Senate Friday a substitute was reported from the finance committee for the House bonded spirits bill, permitting the present bonded period of three years to be extended on writing a request and renewal of the bond. The Creek orphan fund bill and the Japanese idemnity fund bill were further discussed, but no action was reached. An adjournment was taken until Monday. The Democrats continued their filibustering in the House as heretofore, finally offering a resolution for the appointment of a special committee to inquire into the authenticity of all the evidence in the Mackey-O'Connor case. This proposition was not entertained by the Republicans and after a most exciting session an adjournment was taken until today.

The President's cabinet held its regular session Friday and agreed upon the names of seven gentlemen as members of the tariff commission. These gentlemen are John L. Hayes, of Massachusetts, Henry A. Oliver, of Pennsylvania, A. M. Garland, of Illinois, Robert P. Porter, of the District of Columbia, Alexander Mitchell, of Wisconsin, John S. Phelps, of Missouri, and James Chestnut, Jr., of South Carolina. The two remaining members will probably be William A. Wheeler, of New York, who will doubtless be the chairman of the commission, and J. A. Ambler, of Ohio. The names will be sent into the Senate early next week and then the much discussed question will be settled.

A letter from Altoona, Penn., to the New York Evening Post says that the strong influences that have caused so much trouble in the iron trade in Pennsylvania are rapidly extending to the iron districts of New York and New England, and it is added:—"It will be readily understood that a tremendous uprising is being planned, when it is stated that more than 1,000,000 knights of labor, 70,000 steel and iron workers and 250,000 bituminous and anthracite miners, besides several thousand other wage workers, are moving in the labor campaign. A very turbulent spirit has begun to show itself at various points, and it is apprehended, from the discoveries made by the coal and iron police and the detectives employed by the coal, iron, railroad and steel corporations, that an organized and general revolution, accompanied by bloodshed, will be inaugurated in those districts where the strikers refuse to allow the newly imported hands to work."

There is a strong probability that the story of the bravery and heroism of the station master Way, in saving the midnight train from destruction, will turn out to be one of the greatest frauds ever perpetrated in this part of the country. A Providence Journal reporter has been investigating the matter and has found out that it will hardly bear investigation. The station master turns out to be an almost worthless young man, who held an unresponsible position in charge of a small way station, and the whole affair is thought to have been made up by him in order to gain notoriety and a higher position. The tramps, who have been kept apart since their arrest, all tell the same story about their whereabouts, and prove that they had nothing to do with the affair. It is believed that the young man and a friend, who had been out together spending the evening, placed the ties on the track and that Way ran to the station and got the red lantern and then signalled the train. Way claims that he was shot in the arm by the tramps, but no hole is found in his coat and only a slight abrasure of the skin on the arm. The bruises on the face do not resemble the bruise of stone, as he claims they are. Further developments in the case are soon to be made and doubtless Way will be proved a fraud of the first water.

PURE OR IMPURE ICE.

An important question was raised some time since by the Newport Sanitary Protection Society in regard to the quality of the ice in use in this city. It was thought that the product of Almy's pond, especially, might be unsuitable and even dangerous, as it was evident that more or less sewage flowed into that reservoir, and that the germs of disease might thus be disseminated throughout the community. In view of the importance of the subject a committee was appointed, of which Hon. J. Truman Burdick was chairman, and they were directed to take measures to ascertain, so far as possible, the exact facts of the case. Professor Raphael Pumpelly, of the United States Geological Survey, Dr. H. R. Storer, of this city, and Professor W. B. Hills, of Harvard Medical College, with others eminent in their several departments, were interested in the investigation, and gave it their special attention. Samples of the ice taken from the pond during the process of storage were subjected to analysis by distinguished chemists, and the reports of the committee was given to the public in the May number of the Sanitarian.

The report is long and furnishes much valuable information on the general question raised, as well as in regard to the particular case under consideration. The investigation seems to dispose of the popular fallacy that impure water purifies itself by freezing. It is here made clear that if water contains elements dangerous to health, the ice will retain the same, and the report declares that "there can be no doubt that whatever objection attaches to the use of contaminated drinking water, attaches equally to ice frozen from it."

From all the facts gathered the report says:—"In view of the fact that Almy's pond is already contaminated by direct inflow of sewage, your committee recommend very strongly to all members of the association that they should avoid the use of ice from that source for all purposes, even for refrigerators." The same committee finds that "Lily pond is singularly free from all the objections that attach to Almy's pond, and recommend the ice therefrom."

Professor Hills, who received some of the Almy's pond water in a jug, says:

The organic matter in the ice is in a more or less decayed condition. The odor perceived when the stopper was removed from the jug was very disagreeable, and is still evident after the jug has remained unstoppered for several days. This fact makes the water still more unfit for use. I think the citizens of Newport can do no better than to try this simple experiment, in order to convince themselves that the ice is contaminated. Break a cake into small pieces, put them in a demijohn, and stopper it up till the ice is melted. If the odor is as marked as in the sample received by me, they can hardly fail to be convinced of the impropriety of using the ice.

Colonel George E. Waring says:—

1. Water containing the germs of typhoid fever does not free itself from such germs by congelation. This, I think, is well established.

2. Ordinary organic impurities, if uniformly diffused through water, are involved among the crystals of ice and appear in the water after the ice melts, in all respects unchanged. This also, I think, is clearly established.

Professor Pumpelly says:—

1. Water in freezing frees itself from substances which in solution with it give a fluid of greater specific gravity than water alone; but it still retains, even of these, more or less, entangled in the ice.

Substances floating in suspension are entangled in the ice, and to this the microscopic low forms of life, among which are the infectious germs, form no exceptions.

2. Ordinary organic impurities are merely preserved from putrefaction during the period of their existence in a frozen condition. Freezing is only a temporary arresting of the processes of decomposition, and these are resumed when the requisite temperature is again attained.

1. That while the inorganic impurities in water (mineral salts and the like), which are those ordinarily detected by chemical analysis, may be partially eliminated, through their specific gravity, during the process of freezing, the purification remains at the best but partial and imperfect. This was proved in the course of the investigation both at Pittsfield and at Rye Beach.

2. That the even more dangerous organic impurities resulting from human and other animal waste, are retained in ice unchanged as regards both quality and quantity, the latter indeed being likely to be increased. The privies and cesspools and large barn-yard of the settlement along the margin of Almy's pond are covered by this statement.

3. That the germs of infectious disease, when this appears in such a locality, are retained in ice unaffected, and from their comparative lightness are so concentrated therein as to number, that they exist in even greater quantity than in the same amount of water, under similar circumstances, at other seasons of the year. The privies and cess-pools of the Almy's pond hamlet come under this head also.

4. That ordinary organic impurities thus retained in ice are likely, though there be no technically infectious disease in the neighborhood, to produce serious, and even dangerous illness in those persons who may use the ice in question for domestic purposes. This was positively proved at Rye Beach.

5. That though there may not occur a case of infectious disease in the vicinity of Almy's pond for a considerable time to come, yet sooner or later it is quite certain to exist, and then to endanger the lives of all throughout the city, should there be such who should use the ice, more surely, indeed, than were they to drink the water alone.

It is proper to say in this connection that the Newport Ice Company have rendered every assistance in their power to have this investigation thorough and complete, the members of the company being as anxious as any others to avoid the use of impure or dangerous ice. The subject is one of more than ordinary interest and comes home to every household in the city, and the society conducting the examination has conferred a favor upon Newport of the highest value.

CLOSE AND FREQUENT CONNECTION WITH NEW YORK.

Beginning on Monday, June 5th, steamer Eolus will run as follows:—Leave Newport at 7 A. M., 12 M., and 4.35, 8.30, and 11.10 P. M., and will arrive at 6 and 9.50 A. M. and 4.05, 7.45 and 10.55 P. M. Passengers will arrive in New York at 6.28 A. M. and at 4.22, 6.40, and 10.55 P. M., and will leave New York at 8.05 A. M. and at 1, 4, and 10 P. M. It will be seen that the boat will run one more round trip than in previous summers, making five in all. The 4.35 P. M. trip connects with the new fast train for New York, arriving in that city at 10.55 and the 11.10 night trip will connect with the train due in New York at 6.28 A. M. A fine feature of the new arrangement will be the fact that passengers may leave New York as late as four o'clock in the afternoon and reach Newport at 10.55 that night, a better advantage of travel than Newport has ever enjoyed.

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT IN TIVERTON.

The community was shocked yesterday afternoon by the intelligence from Tiverton that a fatal accident had befallen Mr. Charles A. Swasey, of Newport. Mr. Swasey had for some time been superintending the building of a dwelling-house near the Stone Bridge for Captain Isaac Church, a nephew of Mr. Swasey's wife. Mrs. Swasey had taken the opportunity to visit her relatives in the town, and she was there when her husband fell. Mr. Swasey had not been much upon the staging of the house, but the work was a little behind, and he said to his wife yesterday morning that he would have to "take hold" himself and hurry the work along. He was on the staging at work upon a dormer window at about four o'clock when he stepped backward off the stage and fell to the ground, a distance of thirty-five feet, striking upon a stone wall. He was badly injured internally and several bones were broken. He was taken up unconscious and remained so till his death, which occurred about twenty minutes after he fell. Mrs. Swasey reached him soon after the accident and remained with him till the end. The news was telegraphed to Officer Davis, who is a son-in-law of Mr. Swasey, who, with Mrs. Davis and her sister, started in a carriage to go to Tiverton, hoping to reach the place before Mr. Swasey's death, but they met the carriage containing his body near the Tea House, about five miles from Newport. Mrs. Swasey took the evening train for home and arrived in advance of the body. Mr. Swasey was a member of the Central Baptist Church and of Touro Council, American Legion of Honor. The latter society will attend his funeral which will take place on Monday. He was a worthy citizen and was generally respected.

RIFLE SHOOTING.

The marines of the training fleet engaged in rifle practice at the new range on Coasters Harbor Island yesterday afternoon when the following scores were made at 100 and 200 yards, 5 shots each, total possible 50:—

	100	200	Total
Private Leonard	19	12	31
Sergeant Eckert	11	15	29
Private Lonergan	18	8	26
Private Breman	11	13	21
Corporal Chambers	16	8	24
Private Hukey	14	9	23
Corporal Cassen	14	9	23
Musician Baxter	5	9	14
Private Burne	14	0	14
Musician Balun	3	4	7

A very strong wind was blowing across the range and this, with the fact that this was the first practice, will explain the poor scores of some.

SAN FRANCISCO MINSTRELS.

The New York Telegram says of Birch and Backus's San Francisco minstrels, which play in Newport on Wednesday evening of next week:

Messrs. Birch and Backus, as "Corn-Salve" and "Patients," are excruciatingly funny. They contrived to keep the large audience present in roars of laughter, and their efforts were ably seconded by the other members of the company. Stanley Grey, Braham and Frillman sang ballads in their own inimitable style, and evoked liberal applause. Mr. Hamilton surprised even his old admirers in the rendition of "Let me Dream Again." The king pins of minstrelsy, Birch and Backus, kept up a continual flow of humorous anecdotes, and wit was as plentiful as sand on the sea shore. Moreland was on hand with several new compound words that fractured Birch's jaw, who innocently sought to repeat one of them.

THE SKATING RINK.

Mr. A. C. Landers, the energetic proprietor of the Newport skating rink, has everything in readiness for the grand opening on Monday evening. About one thousand complimentary tickets have been generously distributed and it is expected that the event will be a grand success and insure a corresponding benefit in the future to Mr. Landers. The decorations are neat and tasty, the floor in excellent order and the attendants will, as usual, be attentive and courteous to the patrons. The music of the Newport band will not be among the lesser attractions of the favorite resort. The grounds will be illuminated. A special steamer will bring an excursion party from Providence. Professor Kynock, who needs no introduction to the Newport public, will be present during the season as usual and will give personal attention to the teaching of beginners, and will leave nothing undone that will tend to the continued popularity of the rink. Mr. Kynock is a favorite here as he has been at the rink ever since it was opened, and has always shown a disposition to please the skaters as well as the lookers-on by his fancy skating, which has never been equalled in this vicinity at least.

A Chicago lecturer on cookery says that a chicken requires one hour of stewing for every year of its life. Maybe he expects a boarding house to keep a fire running a week to stew a chicken.

COACHING CLUB PARADE.

The annual meet of the drags and parade of the Coaching club took place in New York today. Since the last annual drive a number of the members of the club have had their coaches newly painted, and when brought out for this year's display they gained no small amount of admiration from the onlookers by reason of the taste shown in the selection of the most harmonizing colors for the coating and striping of the body and under-carriage of each drag.

There was nearly a complete change in the stock of thoroughbreds, and instead of the predominance of roans and sorrels there was a decided preference for the chestnuts and grays. The notices or invitations to members to participate in the parade had all been sent out, but as many of those notified were abroad or will be unable to take part in the event on account of unavoidable emergencies, the number of drags was not as large as was at first anticipated. As the members who participated were among those identified as the prime movers towards the advancement of coaching interests in this country and their drags among the best constructed here, the pleasures of the celebration was therefore really in no way curtailed nor was the attractiveness of the display in any degree lessened. The membership of the club has been limited to thirty, but within the past few years the club has become so greatly admired for its objects that many applications for admission have been received. So frequently were the applications made that at the last meeting, held a few days ago, the secretary was forced to announce that no more admissions can be made, as the whole list is complete.

F. K. Sturgis—Claret body and canary under-carriage, with chestnut leaders and gray wheelers.

August Belmont—Maroon body and under-carriage, red stripes, with bay leaders and wheelers.

J. V. Parker—Black body, blue under-carriage, with red stripe. Roan leaders and wheelers.

J. Roosevelt—Blue and red body and under-carriage, with gray leaders and chestnut wheelers.

F. A. Schermerhorn—Claret body, red under-carriage, with bay thoroughbred leaders and wheelers.

Each of these gentlemen was accompanied by his invited guests to the number of six, so that the entire party numbered about sixty-six. The ladies appeared in richly colored coaching and riding costumes, while the members of the club were distinguished by their regulation dress, consisting of dark pantaloons, bottle green coat with gold buttons, and a rose in lapel and high white hat. In accordance with the rules governing the club the president, Colonel William Jay, took the lead, while Colonel De Lancey Kane brought up the rear. The route was through Twenty-sixth street to Fifth avenue, to Central Park, entering by the Fifth avenue entrance, going along the main drive to the west drive, past the mall and thence to the upper end of the park. On the return trip Colonel De Lancey Kane took the lead, driving back over the eastern drive, through the scholars' gate to the main drive and out of the park at Fifth avenue, down which the drive was continued to Washington square and, after rounding the fountain, the line was broken and all returned to their quarters.

After the parade and the dust of the day's merry journey had been brushed off the members of the club sat down to their annual dinner at the Hotel Brunswick, where a banquet was in waiting, at which the club's progress was discussed and toasts for its continued prosperity were drunk. The line of drags as they rattled along the roads, up and down the avenues and through the Park, were viewed by thousands, and many of the club houses displayed bunting from their windows and balconies in recognition of the coaching club's celebration. The park commissioners at their meeting Thursday made arrangements to have all the roads on the route of the parade through the Park sprinkled, and ordered the police to see that the drags be given the right of way over all other vehicles along all the drives while passing through that section.

THE ELECTRIC LIGHT ON THAMES STREET.

To the Editor of the Daily News:—

DEAR SIR: The voters of the Fifth ward having declared in favor of illuminating Bellevue avenue with the electric light, I propose that, instead of disfiguring that avenue with the Electric Light Company's unsightly poles and connecting cables that the suggestion of your correspondent of yesterday be acceded to, viz:—that Thames street should have the advantage of the experiment, it being the principal business street of Newport as well as the most frequented after dark.

By lighting Thames street with the electric light the most populous portion of the Fifth ward would I believe, appreciate "its clear, cold rays" more than the dwellers on the avenue, in front of whose property they voted to have it placed.

NEWPORT, May 27th. CITIZEN.

DEATH OF A SUMMER RESIDENT.

A Baltimore despatch announces the death in that city Thursday evening of Mr. John Travers, father of William Travers, one of our well-known cottage owners, at the age of ninety-two years. The deceased was a native of Baltimore, and sprang from a family permanently identified with the early history of Maryland. When a young man he removed to Paterson, N. J., and engaged in the manufacture of cotton, duck and print cloths in which he amassed a comfortable fortune. Thirty-five years ago he retired from business and came to New York where he resided twenty years, and then returned to Baltimore, where his remaining days were spent quietly and peacefully among his old friends and relatives. Mr. Travers was twice married. His children by the first wife were Ellen, wife of Wm. Henry Hoffman, a prominent citizen of Baltimore; Mary, wife of Mr. John D. Prince, of Lowell, Mass., the parents of J. D. Prince, of the well-known firm of Prince & Whitely, of New York, and William R. Travers, the distinguished financier. His children by his second wife were Robert Travers, who died young, and Emily, wife of Aaron Ogden. While in New York Mr. Travers was a vestryman of Trinity Church. At one time he held an appointment on the staff of the governor of Maryland. Eleven great-grandchildren survive him. Mr. Travers was of fair height and had a clear, ruddy complexion and piercing black eyes. When a young man he was considered very handsome.

A GARFIELD MOSAIC.

Those who are familiar with the works of art in the National Capital will remember the Venetian glass mosaic of Abraham Lincoln that hangs in the old Representatives Chamber. It is from the hand of the Venetian artist Salviati, who designed the likeness as a lasting memorial of the American leader, the mosaic being almost indestructible. Salviati has again offered the homage and sympathy of his countrymen, in the form of a mosaic of President Garfield. The offer has been accepted, and a painting of the late President is about to be forwarded to the Murano works to serve as a copy, and when finished the mosaic will be placed in the Capitol with that of Lincoln.—[New York Post.

I have recalled several times during the writing of this letter, and for reasons, a morn I once spent with "Fanny Fern," who was always good and kind to young people, especially if they aspired to scribbling for the printer. She was busy, and had given orders that there were to be no interruptions for any reason. Suddenly there broke upon our stillness—she was writing and I reading - a loud knock upon the door. "What is it?" said Mrs. Parton, a trifle impatiently. It was the cook, a new one. "Plase, mam, nothing has come for dinner. What will I do mam?" "Do! Why cook the cat! but leave me alone." and she gently shut the door and turned the key. I did not stay to dinner. A kinder-hearted woman than "Fanny Fern" never lived; but, like all women who seek seclusion and quiet, at times she had to fight for it.—[Correspondent of the Boston Transcript.

The Yankee schoolhouse, well introduced in the South, is all that is needed, aside from a few years' time, to evangelize that part of the nation and bring it out of lethargy into vitality, and out of yahooism into intelligence, liberty, and progression. The ten thousand school-ma'ams, who go down the highways of Iowa every morning with linen aprons on, and with the love of liberty and truth in their hearts, who have made Iowa what it is, more than any other dozen forces in it, would take any state in the South and make its citizens liberal, intelligent, progressive, refined, and Republican in ten years.—[Iowa Register.

Suicide by Hanging.

Special Despatch to the Daily News.]

CLAREMONT, N. H., May 27.—John F. Cogsill, a wealthy farmer of this place, committed suicide by hanging last night.

GARFIELD AND DECORATION DAY.

Among the graves of the soldier dead to be decorated with flowers next Tuesday is that of President Garfield at Cleveland. His career in the army and the sacrifice of his life while serving his country make it appropriate that especial ceremonies should be performed in his honor on Decoration day. The survivors of the war for the Union are to make the day the occasion for an especial effort to raise the funds necessary to erect an equestrian statue of President Garfield. His famous ride at Chickamauga should be commemorated by such a statue, and his keen interest in the reunion of his comrades of the war makes it especially appropriate that the Grand Army should undertake to raise the funds required for the proposed monument. Let the memory of Garfield be honored next Tuesday by the decoration of his grave with flowers and by the gift of money to erect the proposed equestrian statue.—[Mail and Express.

A ROMANTIC SUICIDE.

Early Sunday morning two young people, Henry Hilgermeyer and Ella Wenning, both in their teens, drove out of the city in a hired buggy and remained mysteriously absent until 5 o'clock this evening, when the girl reappeared at her mother's residence and told a remarkable story:—"Henry and I left the city yesterday morning, and it was then our intention to commit suicide. Cannot give any other reason for this but that we both were tired of life. After attending a picnic, drove over to Greenwood. There we bought a dime's worth of laudanum and drove about six miles further, until we reached a piece of woods. There we left the buggy and started it toward the city. It was stopped and taken care of by a man before it was out of sight. Henry and I then sat down in a fence-corner to die, and we divided the laudanum between us, each swallowing half of it and then waited for death to come. We passed the night in the open air, and in the morning we walked back to Greenwood, where we purchased a quarter's worth of laudanum. We then walked on to the city, until we reached another piece of woods, where we sat down and again divided the poison. Both still being determined to end our lives, each swallowed half of the poison, and then we sat down behind a cord of wood, and there Henry died shortly afterward in my arms. His last words were 'Kiss me.' When I saw he was dead I left him lying behind the wood, and walked to the city."

When questioned whether she was induced by her lover to take the poison against her will, she answered that such was not the case, and that she took the poison of her own free will.—[Indianapolis despatch to the Cincinnati Commercial.

A SUDDEN LOSS OF SPEECH.

A very remarkable case of a man losing the use of his speech was developed in Louisville some little time ago, the victim being David Calder, a machinist. Only the organs of speech are paralyzed. He is about fifty-five years old, and had, up to the time of the occurrence, perfect use of the tongue. He went to work as usual in the morning, in excellent health and spirits, chatting pleasantly with his family before leaving home. On arriving at the shop he talked as usual until about ten o'clock. He was speaking to one of the men about a piece of machinery, when his speech suddenly failed him, almost in the middle of a sentence. He tried to speak several times, being apparently startled by the shock, but could not do so. It was some time before the rest of the workmen could realize what had happened or understand it. He, however, made signs, and asked in this way to be taken home. They accordingly conveyed him to his residence, and he was placed under treatment. Although every possible effort has been made to find out the cause, no improvement has been made in Mr. Calder's condition, and he has not been able to speak a word since. There is no paralysis whatever of any of the organs of the throat or the tongue; he can laugh, cough, and use his mouth and work his tongue freely—in fact, everything but speak, and consequently the case is a most curious one.—[Louisville Courier-Journal, May 19.

IMITATION BUTTER.

Missouri has a new law forbidding the manufacture or sale in that state of any imitation of butter, no matter whether represented to be genuine or not. The oleomargarine interest made a desperate fight in a test case, carrying it to the Court of Appeals, on the question of the law's validity. The decision is that the prohibitory act is constitutional. "A statute prohibiting the manufacture and sale of an article of food made in imitation of a wholesome article in common use, says the court, "which imitated article is so repugnant to the tastes and prejudices of our people that they will not eat it when advised of its real character, but only when cheated into the belief that it is the genuine article, in resemblance of which it is made, is a statute fairly within the police power of the state, not opposed to any provision of the constitution of the state or of the constitution of the United States, and the wisdom of which is not to be called into question in the judicial courts; and this is so, although particular samples of such imitated articles may, in the opinion of scientific men, be as wholesome and beneficial an article of food as the original substance in imitation of which it is made." The effect of this decision will be to close several factories in St. Louis, where the sale of imitation butter, made from beef fat, lard and other materials, has been extensive.

A project is under consideration at the French Ministry of Finance for abolishing altogether the bronze coins now in use. The substitute will be nickel, which is already in use in Germany and in Belgium for coins of small denomination. The peculiarity of the proposed French coins, however, will be that they will be of octagonal shape in order that they may not be confounded with the silver pieces now current. Models of five, ten and twenty-centime pieces in the new style have already been struck.

"Ah, my friend," said a clergyman to a parishioner, who was the husband of a termagant, and who had made application for a divorce, "we should be yielding and forgiving. There are no divorces in heaven." "That's the reason," said the sufferer, "why I am so anxious to get a divorce here."—[Somerville Journal.

Dubuque county, Ia., has about $2,500,000 invested in the beer and liquor business in one way and another, which will be mostly lost if the prohibitory amendment is adopted, and hence there is some pretty vigorous opposition to it in that district.

The apple trees in East Tennessee are bending with fruit, while peaches, cherries and grapes promise a great yield. The strawberry shippers at Gadsden, Tenn., realize about $1000 per day.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

The crown prince of Germany is said to be one of the strongest and most expert swimmers in the German army, and during the summer months he is accustomed to take exercise early every morning in the vast swimming school especially devoted to the use of the garrison at Potsdam. He is a man of jovial temperament, by no means adverse to a harmless practical jest, and has not infrequently amused himself when the school has been full of huge guardsmen, undergoing their aquatic drill, by swimming rapidly up to some clumsy Anak seizing him by the neck and ducking his head under water until he gasped again. But Frederick William can take as well as play a joke and one morning having succeeded in submerging several of the giant grenadiers belonging to the celebrated first regiment—in which he himself had served his military apprenticeship—he called out aloud:—"Now you may try it on with me if you can!" He had hardly spoken these words when his head was grasped from behind, as in a vice, and he found himself compelled to perform several involuntary dives, so long that he suddenly fell short of breath, and swallowed a considerable quantity of water. As soon as he could get his mouth above water he cried out, "he had more than enough," and his colossal immerser let him go. The crown prince, when he had recovered his breath, turned to the grenadier still in the water and asked his name. Two days later the tall grenadier discovered that a fortnight's leave had been granted him to visit his family, and he was generously provided with money for traveling expenses by the prince.

Naval officers are in luck under a decision of the Supreme Court which, under a law passed June 30, 1876, allows them eight cents mileage in all their official traveling, while the Treasury Department has hitherto allowed eight cents within the limits of the United States and insisted on paying only actual expenses when the trip was outside the United States. Under this ruling it will cost over $200 to send an officer across the Atlantic.

The Philadelphia Bulletin says of the "Independents'" movement in Pennsylvania:—"The blindest eyes begin to see that what is going on is a strenuous effort to ship political leadership from one set of men to another; to transfer the supremacy from those who hold it to those who want it.

Horticulture and small-fruit culture are not in my line exactly; but let me tell you of a charming thing a friend of mine has done. She has raised twenty quarts of strawberries in a space occupying just the room of the head of a wine barrel. This barrel she had perforated with good-sized holes, all over its sides. Proper drainage was secured by filling the bottom full of large stones, and the barrel was filled with earth. The plants were "set out" from the outside, through these holes. In a short time, when the vines had grown—they were also planted in the open top of the barrel—she had something lovely to look at; for the vines completely covered the barrel. They were always clean, and fresh, for they touched no earth, and the fruit blossomed and came to fruition most perfectly. Can you imagine anything pleasanter than picking these berries from out of this pretty tangle of clean foliage? Who cannot have a thing of beauty, a thing of profit, and a thing of joy through strawberry time, and all through the summer, even if his "grounds" are but three feet square? A large hogshead can be used, but to my certain knowledge one "strawberry barrel" yielded twenty quarts of berries.—[Cor. Boston Transcript.

LECKY ON AMERICA.

The American people, though in general unbounded believers in progress, are accustomed, through a kind of curious modesty, to do themselves a great injustice, by the extravagant manner in which they idealize their past. It has almost become a commonplace that the great nation which in our own day has shown such an admirable combination of courage, devotion, and humanity in its gigantic civil war, and which, since that time, has so signally falsified the predictions of its enemies, and put to shame all the nations of Europe by its unparalleled efforts in paying off its national debt, is of a far lower type than its ancestors at the time of the war of independence. This belief appears to me essentially false. The nobility and beauty of the character of Washington can hardly, indeed, be surpassed. Several of the other leaders of the revolution were men of ability and public spirit, and few armies have ever shown a nobler self-devotion than that which remained with Washington through the dreary winter at Valley Forge. But the army that bore these sufferings was a very small one, and the general aspect of the American people during the contest was far from heroic or sublime.—[England in the Eighteenth Century.

Alexander III. has finally come to a realization of what the crusade against his Hebrew subjects means, and has tardily taken the measure that statesmanship dictated from the first. Officials are to be held responsible for outrages, and severe punishment, of which dismissal from office is not the least, is to follow outbreaks such as have disgraced Russia during the last year.

If Logan is to go abroad, as the New York Herald suggests, don't send him to England—send him to some country where they don't understand English.—[Phila Press.

The Catholic Institute Dramatic Association, of Newark, recently played "The Two Orphans." It was afterward sharply criticised by a Catholic writer for producing a drama in which a Sister of Charity tells a lie, and the lie is justified on the ground that it is resorted to for a good purpose. Bishop Wigger obtained a copy of the play, and after reading it pronounced it immoral and forbade its use by any Catholic society in the diocese of Newark. The bishop objects to several parts of the drama.

ALL WORTH REMEMBERING.

☞ CUT THEM OUT. ☜

People take nauseating doses for every pain and ache, which puts their stomachs out of order, and then a physician is called to attend to them. This is all needless, for if the HOP PLASTER is used, it is absorbed into the system in just the way to cure without bringing on other troubles.

A medicine to be popular must be both agreeable and efficacious, the HOP PLASTER is a rare union of vegetable agents combined with safety, reliability and effectiveness. The indiscriminate use of medicines taken internally is far more productive of injury than benefit.

The most powerful medicated and effective plaster ever invented is the HOP PLASTER: it embodies all the medicinal and sedative properties of the Hop in combination with the most highly approved gums and balsams known to modern pharmacy.

The HOP PLASTER is made porous, thus allowing free evaporation of moisture, stimulating the innumerable pores of the body to a healthy action and giving tone and vigor to the whole system. It is a discovery of a Yankee chemist.

The medicinal virtues of the Hop have been utilized for centuries. They are all concentrated in the HOP PLASTER, and do more real good in relieving pain than any root, drug or herb liquid medicine in the whole domain of nature.

HOP PLASTERS are sold by all druggists in the United States and Canada, 25c. each or 5 for $1, and are guaranteed to be the best in the markets. Avoid cheap, worthless goods.

AMPUTATION OF THE LEG.

The Old Family Physician at Fault.—Dr. David Kennedy the Successful Surgeon.

Money is the universal necessity, and none but a cynic or a fool will affect to despise it. Mr. Abram Ellsworth, of Port Ewen, Ulster county, N. Y., had realized this truth. His disease involved the whole of his thigh-bone, and the suffering man looked forward, not without apparent reason, to death as his only deliverer. His family physician refused to amputate the limb—asserting that the operation would kill the patient on the spot. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who was consulted, held a different opinion, and amputated the limb. The Doctor then administered freely his great Blood Specific FAVORITE REMEDY to afford tone and strength to the system, prevent the return of the disease, and Mr. Ellsworth remains to this day in the bloom of health. This gentleman's disease was the offspring of foul blood, and Kennedy's FAVORITE REMEDY purified the blood and restored to him the power once more to enjoy his life. Are you suffering from any disease traceable to the same cause? Try Favorite Remedy. Your druggist has it. ONE DOLLAR a bottle. Bear in mind the proprietor's name and address: Dr. DAVID KENNEDY, Rondout, New York.

STOMACH BITTERS

Among the medicinal means of arresting disease, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters stand pre-eminent. It checks the further progress of all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, revives the vital stamina, prevents and remedies chills and fever, increases the activity of the kidneys, counteracts a tendency to rheumatism, and is a genuine stay and solace to aged, infirm and nervous persons. For sale by all druggists and dealers generally.

TWO LETTERS.

PARADISE VALE, Col., August 12.

DEAR MAT:—Women out here are as scarce as strawberries among the Esquimaux, and what few there are invariably are the wives of somebody, and hold themselves away above "hiring out." Everything is topsy turvy. The only girl I know East married another fellow, but I trust to your judgment. Rise to the occasion. Pick me out a good-natured girl. Represent to her the delights of Western life; put me in as good a light as you can; appeal to her compassion; persuade her; draw on me; get her trousseau, buy her ticket, ship her, and then—gratitude pales before the feeling I shall have for you. This is written at a sort of breakfast—the coffee is execrable. I have the confidence of desperation in your success. Hopefully thine,

VICTOR BEACHLY.

The recipient of this epistle pondered long. He knew of but one who would not presently become uncongenial in spite of the broad margin of qualities given. She was a little mite of a woman, fiery and tough as whipcord.

Hardin put on his hat and overcoat and went out, hailed a street-car, and ten minutes after was standing in a room sweet with flowers and bright with sunshine. The door opened and in swept a small creature, dark with glistening teeth and flashing eyes. She came up to Hardin.

"Extremely so." There was a silence.

"Have you anything on your mind, Mat?" looking gravely at him. "Won't you sit down?"

"No, thanks." Then in desperation he took out Beachly's letter and flung it down on the table before her.

"What do you think of that?" he said, and watched her while she read.

"Well," she answered, thoughtfully, when she had finished; "there is Maria—Maria Knabbs—do you know her. She is very strong and good tempered—"

"I was thinking of you, Miss Madeline."

"Me! of me!

"Why not," rather ashamed.

"Do you think we women are mere merchandise?"

"My dear young lady, you are too hasty. Listen, if you knew him and loved him would you hesitate?"

"That is a distinction with an immense difference."

"No. I come and tell you of a man who is in want of a wife and that he is true-hearted and chivalrous."

"You never told me anything of the sort."

"And you refuse to go because you don't happen to know him?"

She laughed at the simplicity of the answer.

"Pray do you think women are so wild to get married that they will go hundreds of miles after a husband?"

"They've gone a great deal farther and been just as happy as those who stayed at home."

"You are always more or less rude. Now you can go."

"By all means; but first let me tell you. Now you have dependence and semi-drudgery, there you will have probable happiness and certain freedom. I wait for your answer."

The door shut and he was gone leaving the letter.

Madeline sat staring at it till she heard her sister-in-law coming, then thrust it into her pocket. Her sister-in-law was very curious, but her curiosity was baffled. This made her cross, and she took refuge in nagging as only a professional can. Madeline was more patient than usual until evening: then there was a storm of the kind that does not clear the atmosphere. Madeline went up stairs and dashed off the following:—

MR. HARDIN:—
Will be ready to start West tomorrow morning by the 5.30 train.
MADELINE WIER.

The next morning Hardin found Madeline at the depot, as collected and composed as if she had been Mrs. Beachly for twenty years. He bought her tickets checked her trunk, chose a seat for her, procured a guide-book, explained about the changes of trains, inquired after her sister-in-law, and finally after bidding her good-bye, prompted by some sudden misgiving, came back just as the train was moving and lifted her hand to his lips. The next moment she was alone, the train fairly started, and Madeline—shivered.

On, past town and country, through hills and across rivers. Madeline had enough fresh vitality to enjoy the present; so it was not until the Rocky mountains came fairly into view that her old self-disgust and apprehension gained the upper hand.

The cars at last slackened their speed for a moment at P— —. Madeline sprang off. Three miners sprang on. One mail bag was pulled into the car, another thrown out. Madeline's trunk was tossed on the platform, and the train rushed on. Madeline sat down on her trunk desolately enough. After waiting a few moments and seeing no one she vented her contempt on her unprotected head, unprotected by any self-justification. Suddenly she heard steps, and looking up saw a tall, broad-shouldered young fellow, in a blue shirt open at the throat, gray pantaloons tucked in his boots, and a large, slouching hat. He hesitated a moment, then, lifting his slouch hat, said:—

"Miss Wier?"

"Yes."

There was a pause. Mr. Beachly was astonished and perplexed, although he had received a telegram several days ago:—

"She is coming. Get a preacher. Name—Madeline Wier. HARDIN."

But this was something very different from the lady he had had in his mind. He looked down and saw the long black lashes that swept the hot cheeks! It would be better without doubt to have it over.

"Miss Wier, he said, gently, "the clergyman is waiting: will you come?"

Madeline rose and followed him. She felt herself lifted into a buggy, then moving swiftly through the air, she saw the mountains in their beauty around her, but she did not perceive them. After lugging two or three miles, the horses stopped before an unpainted, rough-looking frame house. Beachly jumped down and helped Madeline out; he led the way into the front and principal room of the house, which was darkened and cool, and possessed a certain masculine neatness. A man came forward, he was introduced the Rev. Mr. White.

It was the Episcopal service; she remembered it well—the minister began in a pleasant, deep base tone. The service was ended; he went on talking in a conventionally solemn tone on the duties of married life and its responsibilities. A breath of cool air touched Madeline's hand; she raised it and looked at the gold ring on the third finger curiously, then glanced up at Beachly. There was just the glimmer of a smile on his face. Like a flash Madeline realized it; she swayed, and would have fallen. The next thing she was conscious of was a leisurely voice saying in the easiest tone.

"Take a journey of a few thousand miles and try it, suppose—"

Madeline made a movement and opened her eyes. Beachly turned quickly and bent toward her, the minister moved outside and proceeded to light a cigar. Madeline gazed long and earnestly into the depth of the blue eyes bent on her.

"Victor!" The name was pronounced gently, questioningly. A light went over Beachly's face.

"My Madeline," he answered. Madeline regarded him wonderingly. Yesterday seemed years ago.

"It is so much better than I deserve," she said wistfully.

"No," he protested, and brought a chair and sat down. "You are the embodiment of my ideal. It is the fulfilling of our destinies. You will not regret it. I will perform my vows and you will cease to wonder."

Madeline smiled but looked troubled.

"I did it in a fit of temper," she said.

"You needn't mind; it was all foreordained," he answered, reassuringly, and then branched off in a matter of fact tone and explained all his plans, asked her advice, described the scenery, and they had an easy, comfortable talk, while the clergyman waited near.

"I must write to Hardin," Beachly said, when the preacher came in to make his adieux. And this was the letter he dispatched next day:—

MY DEAREST MAT:—I promised gratitude in my last, but now I cannot but regard you, my dear boy, as an instrument of destiny. In the same light I regard my letter, which I should be ashamed of if it were not that one must judge a thing by its fruits. As for my wife, language sinks powerless. The manner of our mutual acquiring is not a safe precedent. I acknowledge it is simply a glorious isolation. Destiny in the nineteenth century! Come out and see us. Have more land than I know what to do with. Would be happy to make you a wedding present. Forever and ever, after taking some highly puffed up stuff, with long testimonials, turn to Hop Bitters, and have no fear of any Kidney or Urinary troubles, Bright's Disease, Diabetes or Liver Complaint. These diseases cannot resist the curative power of Hop Bitters; besides it is the best family medicine on earth.

If Nearly Dead

A Philadelphia musician accepted an invitation to play at a private party, and the first request of the hostess was:—"Please don't play so loud; it interferes with the conversation."

I will now state that I made a miraculous cure of one of the worst cases of skin disease known. The patient is a man 40 years old; had suffered 15 years. His eyes, scalp and nearly his whole body presented a frightful appearance. Had had the attention of 12 different physicians, who prescribed the best remedies known to the profession, such as iodide potassium, arsenic, corrosive sublimate, sarsaparilla, etc. Had paid $500 for medical treatment with but little relief. I prevailed upon him to use the CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally, and the CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally. He did so, and was completely cured. The skin on his head, face and many other parts of his body, which presented a most loathsome appearance, is now as soft and smooth as an infant's, with no scar or trace of the disease left behind. He has now been cured twelve months.

Reported by
F. H. BROWN, Esq., Barnwell, S. C.

SCROFULA SORE.—Rev. Dr. — —, in detailing his experience with the Cuticura Remedies, said that through Divine Providence one of his parishioners was cured of a scrofulous sore, which was slowly draining away his life, by the Cuticura Resolvent internally, and Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally. The poison that had fed the disease was completely driven out.

ECZEMA.—Sixteen months since an eruption broke out on my leg and both feet, which turned out to be eczema, and caused me great pain and annoyance. I tried various remedies with no good results, until I used the CUTICURA RESOLVENT internally and CUTICURA and CUTICURA SOAP externally, which entirely cured me so that my skin is as smooth and natural as ever.

LES. M. FRAILEY, 61 South St., Baltimore.

CUTICURA.—The Cuticura treatment, for the cure of Skin, Scalp and Blood Diseases, consists in the internal use of Cuticura Resolvent, the new Blood Purifier, and the external use of Cuticura and Cuticura Soap, the Great Skin Cures. Price of Cuticura, small boxes, 50c.; large boxes, $1.00. Cuticura Resolvent $1.00 per bottle. Cuticura Soap, 25c.; Cuticura Shaving Soap, 15c.
